

Juxtaposed

At Connersmith, be dazzled by a dual show: oil portraits (painted with tiny brushes) by Katie Miller and C-print still lifes by Agniet Snoep. Miller edges her child subjects into mysterious narratives (like Girl with Bright Colored Hair), while Snoep posits insect life beside objects botanical and skeletal. The latter works gleam with the otherworldly import of Netherlandish painters, the “ancestors” of this Dutch-born artist.—JLC
